Subject: FW: Eden Local Plan Examination - Update on Timescales

Hello Tony

As you know we are tracking the Eden LP Examination website carefully in anticipation of the Council publishing further information. Despite there being no new information published since the letter dated 12 January 2017 an article has appeared in the press which relates to Eden's intention to allocate new sites in Appleby and reduce the dwelling yields on the existing proposed allocations. A copy of the article is attached.

In light of this I was wondering if you have any update with regards to the potential publication of this new material and the revised timescales / process for moving forward with the Examination.

Kind regards

Rachael
